

Overview

With decades of experience helping clients procure financing for a broad range of projects and development opportunities, Dentons Muñoz is the preferred choice for North American, European and Asian commercial banks, development banks and multilateral agencies. Turn to us for comprehensive advice and assistance on a broad range of financing projects.

Whether you are a sponsor or a construction company, benefit from our extensive experience financing complex investment projects throughout Central America. We have served as local counsel to multilateral banks in providing mezzanine financing and revolving credits to Central American government institutions and to private companies. We are active in refinancing and debt restructuring deals. Our team is also recognized for assisting lenders and foreign investors instituting development structures under build-operate-own (BOO), build-operate-transfer (BOT) and public-private partnership (PPP) structures.

Knowledgeable, seasoned and responsive, our team combines financial services capabilities with first-hand construction experience, including infrastructure and energy projects. Rely on us to manage any potential legal hurdles and ensure a successful deal on projects including:

- Telecom projects
- Toll roads
- Renewable energy
- Private-public partnerships
- Construction and concession of ports and airports
- Power purchase agreements
- Energy projects
