Overview

Silke is an associate in the Dentons Muñoz Guatemala office. She handles corporate law, mergers and acquisitions, business transactions, and corporate reorganization and restructuring in general.

Silke's main experiences include corporate law and active participation in infrastructure projects. Her interest also addresses international business transactions; therefore, she has had the opportunity to advise high-profile international clients on their day to day business transactions as well as their expansion and incorporation in the Central American market.

In her day-to-day business, she is dedicated to the review and advise of commercial and civil contracts of national and international companies taking into account not only Guatemalan legislation but also international law, which allows her to achieve a global assessment.

Experience

Before joining Dentons Muñoz, she worked as a paralegal mainly advising on the subject of International Business Law and Contract Law.
